Get this rare beauty -- in draft form, no less -- at the American Social Dogfish Head tap takeover this week.

This week is the calm before the storm of Palm Beach Wine & Food Festival and the full holiday onslaught. Keep things chill with a progressive dinner at a food truck rally, or treat yourself to a hard-to-come-by craft beer. After the jump, find a roundup of some of this week's food- and drink-related activities in Broward and Palm Beach counties.

Monday

Food truck rally in Hollywood

The weekly food-truck invasion in downtown Hollywood includes familiar favorites like B.C. Tacos, Dim Ssam a Gogo, the Rolling Stove, and many others. The roundup is 5:30 to 9:30 p.m. There's no cost to attend, but bring cash for the trucks. The rally is in Arts Park at Young Circle.

Festival of the Arts Boca preview party at Kapow! and Dubliner

Kapow! Noodle Bar and Dubliner are teaming up this evening to host a preview party for next year's Festival of the Arts Boca. The party is 5:30 to 7:30 tonight and the cost is $10 to attend. For that price, you'll get light bites from Kapow and two drinks from a selected menu.

Bake for the Rescues

Love dogs almost as much as you crave sweet treats? The Bake for Rescues from 6 to 8:30 p.m. at Sundy House allows you to indulge the ol' sweet tooth while throwing a bone to Dizzy's Second Chance Rescue (a local dog rescue). The cost is $25 in advance or $30 at the door.

Christening of new ice cream truck at Jaxson's

In May, some jerk -- or a group of jerks -- stole away with the Jaxson's Ice Cream Parlor Restaurant truck in the dead of night. Since the place is such a beloved South Florida institution, the story made waves. At 3 p.m. today, the restaurant will christen its new truck, playfully dubbed Miss Jaxson II. The event includes free mini ice cream cones and hot dog samples from National Deli.
