Impressionist Rich Little visits Royal Room

Rich Little

He's lampooned Nixon, Reagan, many others in his long career.

By Leslie Gray Streeter
Palm Beach Post Staff Writer

Rich Little has a humble plea to American voters. It's nothing, really.

"Please, please," the legendary celebrity impressionist says, "when you pick the next president, please make sure it's someone with a good voice. Don't worry about what they stand for. Just what they sound like."

It's not that odd a request coming from a guy who made his career comically mimicking several notables of the last half-century, including Presidents Ronald Reagan and Richard Nixon.

The Canadian-born 76-year-old, the so-called "Man of a Thousand Voices," who incidentally became an American citizen five years ago, appears at the Colony Hotel's Royal Room this week, and you can be sure that those famous world leaders, and others, will be appearing there too, at least in voice.

"I'll be doing my own show, on my own life," explains Little, who recently finished a show called "Jimmy Stewart and Friends," where he affects the famously endearing stammer of the iconic actor. "I did Jimmy Stewart for a lot of years, and now I'll be doing my own story."

Little's story, for those under 40, follows his time as the pre-eminent impressionist of the 1970s, where he appeared in Las Vegas, on Johnny Carson and on umpteen episodes of "The Dean Martin Celebrity Roast," thrilling stars like John Wayne, Carol Channing,
